Hi, my name is Joey. I am 42 years old and a father of four loving children. In 2008, after many, many years of battling poor health, I was diagnosed with a condition called "AATD". This is a genetic disease in which I do not have a life saving protein called antitrypsin. This lack of protein has made my lungs almost non-functional. My condition will only get worse with time and if I don't receive a double lung transplant I will soon die from the lack of oxygen. I am very blessed that you might be considering helping me with this matter.

Thank you Joey
